

Welcome to the Current Topic Articles

John Sawyer, Associate Professor, Department of Agronomy, Iowa State University

Antonio Mallarino, Professor, Department of Agronomy, Iowa State University

The Iowa State University Agronomy Extension Soil Fertility web site has undergone a recent redesign. Part of the overhaul is implementation of a new section located on the home page called “Current Topic”. In this section we will write frequent articles on current soil fertility and nutrient management issues in Iowa crop production. The most recent article will be posted on the home page, as well as links to the past three articles. To read the full article (PDF format), simply click on the “Read on” link. To read one of the “Recent Current Topic” articles, click on one of the three listed article links. The “Past Current Topics” section has a link that goes to a listing of all Current Topic articles. We hope you find these articles interesting and useful. Please check back often to find new articles and to look for other information related to soil fertility and nutrient management.